

PARTY CHECKLIST

School days, school days, good old Golden Rule days. The rules of school seem pretty second nature to Tigger, Pooh, Darby, and the Hundred Acre Wood gang — things like play nice, lend a friend a hand, share your honey. But a critter has to learn his or her ABCs and 123s, right?

Like the woodland pals, your little one is gearing up for school — a little nervous, a lot excited — and looks to you to cheer them on and give them a boost of confidence. Carve out a couple of hours the day or week before school begins and help your little super sleuth prepare for what's to come. If you want to make it a party, invite a few of your preschooler-to-be's friends or some kids from the neighborhood.

WHAT YOU'LL NEED:

- A plastic or vinyl tablecloth
- Finger paint in different colors
- An old large-sized t-shirt or kid-sized apron
- Egg carton
- Water-based washable ink pads
- Permanent marker
- Washable fine-point markers
- Newspaper or old placemats
- Heavyweight paper (we suggest 65-pound cardstock)
- Paper, in white or color
- Construction paper — minimum of 6 colors
- Cutting tools
- Pictures of the Hundred Acre Wood gang
- A new storybook
- A box of crayons
- Character pencils
- A new lunchbox
- An on-the-go water bottle
- Cute erasers in a variety of colors and shapes
- Stickers
- A granola bar

WHAT'S INSIDE:

- Decorations
- Recipes
- Activities and games
- Special Day memento